

TeamCain, a Premier JD Edwards® Consulting Practice & Value Add Solution Provider, joins with iQ for Business Software to offer Business Intelligence Solutions

Toronto, ON (January 19, 2012) – Microsoft Gold Certified Partner, iQ for Business Software Inc., announced today that TeamCain, a premier JD Edwards® Consulting practice and value-add solution provider, has joined their partner network to provide robust, intuitive analysis solutions to their customers.

"Our JD Edwards knowledge, coupled with our BI knowledge and experience helps our customers turn their business intelligence vision into a reality and our new partnership with iQ for Business will further facilitate this," said Michael Guerin, President of TeamCain. "The partnership will provide experts who can help customers navigate the maze of options and solutions to achieve a unified wide enterprise strategy when it comes to Business Intelligence. iQ for Business Software's international reputation for intuitive business analytics solutions cemented our decision to join forces with them."

With the easiest-to-use browser interface in the Business Intelligence industry, iQ for Business offers solutions that empower business managers and executives to understand and identify business trends, variances and issues at their root cause. Utilizing standard Microsoft technologies and platforms, complex data is presented in a simple, easily viewable format through a standard browser interface.

"We are extremely pleased to have TeamCain join our partner network," said Ray Major, President of iQ for Business. "We look for partners with exceptional business knowledge, whose goal is to extend that acumen to clients, and this is certainly TeamCain's approach. With a 16-year background in JD Edwards and a sterling reputation, we believe they will be a great help in getting our world-class products to market."
